DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-8, 11, 12, 15-21 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Skinner (5,005,084).

Regarding claim 1, Skinner discloses a remote control 200, which meets the television input device as claimed (see col. 6, lines 30-43), except the channel display period and program category filter preference settings as claimed. In any event, Skinner teaches that every conceivable additional remote control function, such as personal preference parameters, can be included into the remote control 200 (col. 8, lines 45-52). Since channel display period and program category filter preference settings are well known functions in television art, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to include these functions into the remote control 200 of Skinner to perform the well known functions as claimed.

Regarding claim 2, in view the teaching of Skinner above, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include the conventional automatic channel scanning function into the remote control 200 so that the automatic channel scanning function could be operated remotely. By using the scanning function, a viewer is able to see what's available on all the television channels.

Regarding claim 3, see remote control 200.

Regarding claim 4, see remote control 200.

Regarding claim 5, see col. 8, lines 11-19.

Regarding claim 6, see col. 8, lines 50-52.

Regarding claims 7 and 8, in addition to rejection to claim 2, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include the conventional automatic channel scanning pause and resume functions into the remote control 200 so that the pause and resume functions could be operated remotely.

Regarding claim 11, in addition of rejection to claim 1, the conventional program category filter preference settings include a program information preference setting.

Regarding claim 12, in addition of rejection to claim 1, conventional category filtered channels are categorized into subset of channels.

Regarding process claims 15-21 and 24, see the corresponding rejections to the apparatus claims as set forth above.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
